

Mo Litriú agus Frásaí

Do Rang 2, Rang 3, Rang 4, Rang 5 agus Rang 6.

A Mhúinteoirí agus a Thuismitheoirí,

Please take a moment to understand and appreciate the purpose of this book, as outlined on the outside back cover.

'Litriú agus Frásaí' is where the pupils collect important vocabulary, learn to spell the words correctly, and also collect useful Irish phrases and expressions. Over the course of the year, the pupils build a collection of words and phrases, taken from their classroom work and based on the ten themes in Irish.

Each week:

1. The teacher will choose 12 words as spellings, based on the theme the children are working on that week.
2. The pupils write the 12 words into this book and draw little pictures to illustrate the meaning of each word. A line is drawn to match each word to its corresponding picture. (see sample page 1)
3. Pupils write down their weekly 'Nath na Seachtaine', expression of the week, as recommended in the curriculum.
4. Three useful phrases are recorded weekly, based on the theme for the week e.g. as you see on page one, the sample page, all the phrases are related to food, as 'Bia' was the theme for that week.
5. Each week the children put 3 of the spellings into sentences.
6. Spellings are learned each night using the look, say, cover, write and check method.

Look at the word

Say the word

Cover the word with your hand

Write the word on a rough work page

Uncover and check the spelling.

Tick the box as right or wrong.

Alternatively, have an adult call out the spellings each night, write them down and then use your book to correct them. Record your score for each as a 'correct tick' or an 'x' on the spellings page.

Monday night's effort is recorded in column 'L' = An Luan, Tuesday in 'M' = An Mháirt, 'C' = An Chéadaoin, 'D' = An Déardaoin.

In the sample lesson on page 1, you can see that the child got 6 spellings wrong on Monday, but by Thursday was getting them all correct, in good time for the in-class test on Friday.

7. On Friday, the weekly spelling test is recorded in the test section: pages 43 to 52. Each week the teacher calls out the 12 spellings for the test. Pupils write down the spellings, which are then corrected and scored out of 12. A weekly dictation test is recorded in the dictation test section: pages 53 to 58. The teacher calls out the three sentences for the test. Pupils write down the sentences, which the teacher corrects and scores.
8. The 'Foclóir' at the back of the book is a compilation of essential 'High Frequency Vocabulary', which pupils will refer to year after year.
9. Finally, with a view to extending spoken Irish beyond the school context, we have enclosed an additional 37 phrases on page 63, which we hope parents and children will learn and use together during interaction at home. Additionally, everybody should be learning and using the vocabulary & phrases that children are recording in this book on a weekly basis.

To keep our language alive and healthy, we must all make an effort to use it more beyond the classroom. Play your part by using the vocabulary and phrases you are learning, as you interact with others at school, at home and out & about.

Go n-éirí libh.

About This Book:

This book can be used by all pupils from second class to sixth class, in which to collect and record Irish vocabulary, phrases and expressions. These items then form the basis of their spelling work.

Irish spellings must be learned in context and not simply parachuted in, without real relevance to the child.

Spellings are both 'caught' and 'taught'!

The vocabulary and phrases for Irish spelling must come from the weekly work in oral language and reading, where the essential Irish words for spelling are 'caught' and written into this book, where they are 'taught' by the teacher and learned by the pupils.

The spellings for learning are chosen from the vocabulary and phrases that the children are learning, using and practicing each week. Therefore, the selected spelling words and phrases have real meaning, a real context and a real relevance to pupil learning. The spellings and phrases are intrinsic to their Irish language programme. The pupils can therefore appreciate the importance of knowing their vocabulary and phrases, and their spelling, being able to use and spell them correctly in their oral and writing activities.

Their 'Litriú agus Frásaí' book will contain all the essential vocabulary and rich phrases for each year of primary school. By the end of sixth class, each child will have five volumes of 'Litriú agus Frásaí', and the hope is that the children will be using their store of rich vocabulary and phrases as they work and play together, both at school and at home.

We urgently need to take the use of our Irish language beyond the four walls of the classroom!
